THE COURT OF CLAIMS .- We have repeatedly discussed the merits and operation of this Court in our columns, and, though our readers are doubtless sufficiently familiar with both, we shall venture to refer briefly to the subject again. Its great importance can scarcely be doubted even by the most casual observer of affairs. Justice, economy, the best interects of Congress, and the fair fame of the Government in the eye of its own citizens, palpably unite to render it of capital moment. It is manifestly a subject of pervading consequence-one in which any citizen may become personally interested at some time, and in which everybody who cares anything for the public welfare, or, indeed, whether he does or not, is generally and very deeply interested at all times. For so urgent a matter, it has, we think, received much too little attention from the press. This is particularly to be regretted inasmuch as a full and pointed expression of public opinion promises to effectually correct the only or at least the principal evil which obstructs the successful operation of the Court. We refer to the absurd, unjust, and scandalous practice of Congress in tearing up and reviewing all decisions in favor of claimants, while affirming all adverse decisions without hesitation or inquiry. This practice is an outrageous one, and deserves the sharpest and most emphatic rebuke of the press. It is the point to which we wish especially to direct the attention of our read-

We presume there can be no dispute about the fact of this extremely shabby practice. It unquestionably exists. And as little uncertainty can there be concerning its extent. We have seen it stated on excellent authority, and we have no ubt in the world of the truth of the statement that in every solitary instance where the Court has goes into an examination and discussion of the law and the facts, in committees and before both Houses, and, finally, after practically ignoring the very existence of the Court, affirms or reverses the decision as the whim happens to strike it. This, in truth, is the testimony of all who have had anything to do with the prosecution of demands against the Government since the organization of the Court of Claims, either as principals or agents, and of hundreds of other intelligent witnesses, professional and otherwise, whom pleasure or duty has called to Washington during the session of the Court. Everybody, in short, tells the same story, and nobody telis any other. There can't be any reasonable doubt about it. It is a despicable truth.

The injustice of this practice is too gross to require particular exposure. It is, in fact, not only gross, but contemptible. It violates the sense of manliness as well as the moral sense of every rightly constituted mind. Through it, as has been justly said, Congress virtually says to the claimant: "We have provided a Court to investigate your claim; go and employ counsel to prosecute your case there; incur the expense of printing your petition and briefs and collecting your testimony; and when the Court shall have heard the arguments on both sides, and fully considered your case, if its decision shall be against you, that decision shall be final, and you shall be forever barred from again setting up your claim. But if, on the other hand, the decision shall be in your favor, then you may come back to us, and we will examine your claim in our committees, and discuss it in both Houses, and finally do just as we please about allowing or rejecting it." A practice so utterly at war with every conception of fair-dealing is unworthy of any respectable body. In the Legislature of a great nation it is hardly less than infamous. It is perfectly intolerable. Aside from its atrocious wrong, its direct and vigorous tendency to bring the Court of Claims into discredit and disgrace is obvious. In effect, it annihilates the Court as an active tribunal, converting it into an expensive puppet, serving only to complicate and vex will be the inevitable result.

questions which Congress after all reserves to itself ing to its own supreme pleasure. Under the shameful usage the proceedings of the Court degenerate for the most part into an empty farce. It defeats not the Government from the unwieldy and inefficient inquisition of Congress to a special tribunal the court a cruel mockery. And what aggravates the vileness of the practice is the fact, conceded on all hands, that the court of claims is one of the most upright and capable tribunals in the nation. The action of Congress is pure enormity. "No court in this country," says a distinguished authority, "has ever examined cases more elaborately or thoroughly than that court does." And the judgment of every man at all familiar with its proceedings or with the eminent talents and spotless character of its members will echo the opinion. There is really no shadow of excuse for the misconduct of Congress in this matter. It is totally indefensible. The evil that an end was put to it.

The remedy is plain. We have already hinted it. Let the press but hold up the monstrous scandal fairly to the public eye, and it will vanish like goblins before the beams of morning. We invoke the press to discharge its whole duty in the case.

A SPLENDID NEW GIFT BOOK.-We have re ceived from the publishers, D. Appleton & Co., of New York, specimen sheets of a splendid new gift book, which they have now in press, entitled "World-Noted Women, or types of particular womanly attributes in all lands and ages." It is to be published in the same style as "The Republican Court of Washington," magnificently bound in antique morocco, and will contain seventeen elegant steel engravings, designed by Charles Staal, by whom were designed the splendid engravings of "The Women of the Bible," and executed by the very best artists. The following celebrated women will be represented in the illustrations:

that in every solitary instance where the Court has reported an adverse decision, that is, a decision against the claimant, Congress has confirmed it without ever asking a question; while on the other hand, when the Court reports a favorable decizion, Congress invariably opens up the whole case afresh, Congress invariably opens up the whole case afresh, of Arc, Maid of Orleans. Isabella of Castile, the of Arc, Maid of Orleans. Isabella of Castile, the celebrated Queen of Spain. Lady Jane Grey, beheaded at seventeen years of age. Pocahontas, the heroic Indian woman, the first Indian convert to Christianity. Duchess de la Valiere, a lovely woman of the Court of Louis XIV. Maria Theresa, Queen of Austria and Hungary. Catherine II of Russia. Florence Nightingale, an angel of goodness.

This volume will present a galaxy of noted women whose fame has filled the earth and made their names imperishable.

The text of this work has been prepared by the distinguished authoress, Mary Cowden Clarke. The selection has been made not so much with a view to present a gallery of female beauty, but to exhibit the distinct types of particular attributes of womankind by which the possessors have been rendered renowned or notorious, and to show the curious links of historic association between many of these "world-noted women." It will be one of the most splendid and tastefully got-up gift books ever published.

IMPORTANT NEWS FROM UTAH-THE MORMONS IN REBELLION .- We refer to the Washington dispatch, which gives authentic intelligence that Brigham Young has bid defiance to the authorities of the United States. He says that he will permit the troops to remain in Utah during the winter and furnish them with provisions provided they give up their arms and ammunition. We doubt very much whether anything can be done with the Mormons this winter.

THE MONEY MARKET - RESUMPTION OF THE NEW ORLEANS BANKS .- There is no change whatever to notice in the money market here. A private dispatch received from New Orleans last evening, ounces that the free banks have all resumed spe cie payments. Cotton was 1/2 cent lower.

The Methodist Protestant Convention, which has been in session at Cincinnati, adjourned on Monday. The Cincinnati Gazette comes to the conclusion that, if not immediately, a separation between the Northern and Southern portions of the conference

MURDER.-Last evening a young man named Gusthe privilege of examining and determining accord- tavus Coleman, late from Madison Parish, La., but originally from Maysville, in this State, killed Thes. Hopwood, of the firm of Hopwood & Bro., hatters, on Fifth street, between Main and Market. It is stated merely justice, but the object for which the Court that Coleman wanted Hopwood to trust him for a was expressly organized; namely, the transferring hat. This was refused and led to a quarrel between of the settlement of private claims against the parties. Coleman left and went into Dr. Murphy's office, immediately opposite the hat store. The doctor being absent, he requested Mr. Coyle to whose exclusive business it should be. It renders step out. Coleman told Mr. C. that the hatter had insulted him and driven him out of his house, and, pointing to his cravat, showed where Hopwood had a hold of it. Hopwood then came across the street and again commenced quarreling with Coleman. The latter got behind Mr. Coyle and showed one of his arms which had been lamed by a shot wound and his inability therefrom to engage in a combat. Coleman thereupon left and called at the St. Charles, much intoxicated, where he attempted to borrow a pistol or knife, but, failing in it, he stepped into Mr. Griffith's store and purchased a common hunting-knife for a dollar. He then returned to the hat store. We do not know what passed between is not only flagrant, but gratuitous. It is high time the parties, but Hopwood was stabbed in the left breast, the knife passing through the upper lobe of the right lung, and causing death almost instantly. Officer Powell arrested Coleman in the upper story of the Irwin House and lodged him in jail. Hopwood leaves a wife and child. He was an Englishman by birth and has resided here for several

A CHARITABLE MOVEMENT.—We understand that the trustees of the City Hospital have expressed their willingness to supply medicines gratis to the needy poor during the coming winter. There are numbers of poor people in our city who are unable to pay for medical attention or even to purchase medicines amidst the privations by which they are surrounded during the winter months, and this benevolent and praiseworthy proposition on the part of the trustees of the hospital will afford incalculable relief to those whose poverty is aggravated by sickness and physical suffering. The movement merits universal approbation. It has been nobly seconded by Drs. Goldsmith of the Kentucky School of Medicine and Rogers of the Medical Department of the University of Louisville, who have promptly tendered their services to give medical advice grats to the poor. Dr. Goldsmith will be in attendance at 9 A. M. each day, and will also perform such surgical operations as may be required, and Dr. Rogers will be in attendance at 3 P. M. of each day and may be consulted by patients who need medical attention.

CONCERT LAST NIGHT .- A large and attentive audience assembled at the Church last night, to enjoy the promised concert. The cry of hard times does not seem to prevent the gratification of the musical taste of our citizens. The object of the concert, however, in this case helped to fill the house. Yet music of so superior a quality we have no doubt would at any time, of itself bring out a large assemblage. Mr. Gunter acted as director and Mr. Zoller presided at the organ. The professional singers were Miss Colliere, M. Colliere, and Mr. Whipple. Miss Colliere's style is excellent and her voice has been cultivated to a high degree. Mons. Colliere entrances all of his hearers with his splendid voice and perfect musical education. The many friends of Mr. Whipple were never more delighted with his clear voice and distinct enunciation, than on this occasion. His solo of "The Last Man" was was a prominent feature of the evening. The amateurs were in fine voice and sang their respective parts in an excellent manner.

DEATH OF L. W. FISKE.-We are pained to announce the death of this gentleman, which occurred at Chicago last Wednesday. We learn from Mr. Alfred Nauts, who came from Chicago last night, that Mr. Fiske was of the firm of B. Smith. Jones & Co , lumber dealers, who were doing a lucrative business. He had taken one of his partners home

Mr. Fiske resided here for many years. He was the first secretary of the chamber of commerce and one of the projectors and proprietors of the Commercial Review. By his gentlemanly qualities he endeared himself to all who came in contact with him. We believe he was a native of New Hampshire. He was the inventor of some valuable improvements in tanning. THE BARBACUE AT LEBANON .- The opening of the Lebanon Branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad through to Lebanon, will be celebrated to morrow by a grand barbarcue at Lebanon, to which our citizens generally are invited. The people of that section of our State are celebrated for their whole-hearted hospitality and will unquestionably make this celebration an agreeable and elegant affair. The road runs through a country that is a terra incognita to many of our citizens and they should not lose this opportunity to see it upon an occasion of rejoicing. Let the delegation from Louisville be a large one, and show to the vicinage of Lebanon and New Haven that their hospitality is apprecia ted and their good feeling reciprocated by the people of Louisville. From an advertisement in our paper it will be seen that the trip will be made in one day and it will undoubtedly be a delightful excursion to all who go.

THE HOG MARKET .- Messrs. Atkinson. Thomas. & Co. killed 800 hogs yesterday, and Messrs. Jarvis & Co. killed about 200, which were all that had been for its reception next spring have been left untouchreceived thus far. We could hear of no contracts. There are buyers however at $5 net, cash. A good many hogs are expected in during the latter part of the week, and if the weather is favorable all the houses will commence operations next week.

SERIOUS ILLNESS OF THE EARL OF ABERDEEN Among the items of news brought by the Arabia we find intelligence of the alarming illness of Lord Aberdeen, which is causing much anxiety to his friends. His complaint is obstruction of the bowels. Lord Aberdeen has long been quite prominent n British politics.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS

The river is falling quite rapidly. In the twenty four hours ending last evening it had receded 10 inches, leaving 7 feet water over the falls on the rocks and 101/2 feet water in the canal.

For New Orleans .- The E. H. Fairchild, Captain Fawcett, will leave for New Orleans this evening. She is an A No. 1 craft. Mr. Leyden, a very excellent gentleman, has charge of the office. The Fairchild is lying at Strader's wharf.

The new steamer Comet, of which we gave a description last week, will leave for Camden, on the Ouachita river, to-day, taking freight and passengers for all points on the Mississippi river as far down as Natchez. The Comet is commanded by Capt. Jennings, and Mr. Elliott is the clerk.

Capt. J. Jeff. Stewart telegraphed from St. Louis yesterday that his splendid steamer, the Republic will be here on Friday and leave this port for New Orleans on Monday next.

Capt. Charles F. Reynolds contemplates starting with the Virginia for New Orleans on Wednesday next.

For St. Louis .- The Statesman, which has always been a favorite craft in the St. Louis trade, will commence making regular trips to-day. She has been laid up for some months, and during that time has undergone thorough repairs and has been newly painted and furnished.

The John Gault is here yet. Capt. Bunce informs us that he will leave certainly at 2 o'clock to-day. The W. A. Eaves is the packet for Owensboro this

Three Tennessee packets are at the wharf and advertised to leave for that river to-day. They are the R. M. Patton, Time, and Wm. Knox. Last evening a fourth came over the falls-the William Dixon. She has been laid up at Portland. We are indebted to the Time for a copy of the manifest.

The H. D. Newcomb will doubtless pass Mem phis to-day. She will be due here on Friday night. The Antelope, a capital boat, in command of Capt. Bealer, will leave for New Orleans on Saturday. The new and excellent Green river packet Brace let will leave for Green river to-day.

The Telegraph Na. 3 is the mailboat for Cincin ati to-day.

Steamer North Star Sunk .- Capt. Haslap's sterrvheeler North Star was sunk on Saturday night last at the mouth of Big Black river. She recently entered the Memphis and White river trade. She was owned by Capt. Haslep and parties at Pittsburg and insured there.

The following we copy from the New Orleans Picavnne:

The steamer Metacomet, Capt. Chysup, which has been lying up near McDonoghville since her return from Vera Cruz, sprang a leak on Monday night last and sunk in the stream. The unfortunate vessel lies in deep water, partly careened over and with only a portion of her bow above the surface. A schooner was alongside vesterday a fragmon, but A schooner was alongside yesterday afternoon, but we did not learn what was done in the way of her relief.

A few weeks since, some of the citizens of Pontotoc county, Miss., hung a man named Jefferson Gray. During the late term of the court, Judge Harris laid the matter especially before the grand ury, who reported their inability to obtain any evidence sufficient to identify or find indictments against any one charged in the hanging. Judge Harris, however, remarks the Examiner of the 30th ult., "not being disposed in such a lenient manner to wink at or tolerate the proceedings of Judge Lynch, of whom he seemed to be particularly jealous, refused to discharge the grand jury until they should more fully investigate the matter, and ordered that the evidence which had been or could be obtained by them on the subject should be reported in writing to the Court and spread upon the minutes. Since then the grand jury have been diligently en gaged in the further investigation of the matter, an Sappho, the Greek poetess, called the "Tenth Muse." Lucretia, denominated the "Glory of Women." Aspasia, the love of Pericles. Cleopatra, the Egyptian Queen who charmed Mark Antony.

Sappho, the Greek poetess, called the "Glory of very spirited animal, ran off and threw him out. The injuries he received were such that he lived only the control of the matter, on till yesterday, when they brought into Court some twenty or thirty indictments against persons contents the lived only the control of the matter, on the force of the matter, on the force of the force evidence obtained before them; whereupon the grand jury were discharged."

> Tornado, -A tornado passed over a part of Yazoo and Holmes counties in Mississippi, week before last, destroying the quarters, gins, and fences on the following plantations: William Houson, N. Wallace. M. R. Greer, J. L. Leslie, J. C. and R. M. Bridge forth, and Dr. H. J. Thomas. The residence of Mr. Bridgeforth, being constructed of wood, was lifted up by the tornado and moved some thirty or forty yards, without destroying the house. Two of his negroes were killed. M. T. Greer had a negro killed and two badly injured. Mr. Leslie's bedding and bedclothes were found hanging on the stumps and tops of trees for a considerable distance off. The residence and kitchen of Dr. Thomas were all that was left standing. At one place some seventy-five stacks of fodder and a stable blew down, burying a number of mules and horses, several of which were killed. Not a gin, quarter, or fence was left standing in its track. Budd King's place shared the same fate.

A grand ball has been given by the officers of the frigate Niagara to the elite of the inhabitants of Plymouth and its neighborhood. We learn that the Niagara was to have left Plymouth on the 5th inst., so that she may be expected at New York about the 20th. The last mile of the cable was discharged on the morning of the 29th ult., but the arrangements ed, so that she will be ready when she returns to England to commence taking it on board. In con sequence of the additional llength ordered for the next expedition, the work of coiling will occupy about six weeks altogether, and the telegraph fleet will begin the work from mid-ocean some time about the 1st of June next.

A horrible tragedy transpired in New Orleans on the 9th. A negro trader named George Stovall murdered a woman named Mary Durand, with whom he had been living, and then jumped into a well, but there was not water enough in it to drown himself and he was rescued and arrested.

Mr. Samuel Jones's tanner shop, in Grassy Valley, Harrison county, Ind., was destroyed by fire on Tuesday night last. A large quantity of tar ners' tools, hides, and leather were burnt,

The Mound City Emporium mentions the drowning of a cabin passenger on the J. W. Cheesman named P. Riley, who sprang overboard at that place. The same paper states that a flatboat captain named Johnston, who resides below the falls, threw overboard his cook, a boy fourteen years of age, and when the boy attempted to save himself by getting into a skiff hurled an ax at him which luckily mis him. The crew then interceded for the boy, pacified the captain, and he was taken on board.

FATAL RENCOUNTER .- A difficulty occurred in the northern part of Harrison county, Ind., on the 14th inst., between John Nelson and his nephew Jack Nelson, in which the latter was shot through the body. John Nelson immediately gave himself up, was tried, and recognised to appear to answer the charge of murder.

LATER FROM MEXICO.—The steamship Tenness arrived at New Orleans on the 10th, from Vera Cruz. She brought $542,569 50 in specie. The Picayune gives the following summary of news by this arrival:

The regular monthly English steamer Solent sailed for Southampton via Havana en the 4th, with $58, 961 69 silver, and $6,378 in gold coin.

The American bark Flash also sailed on the 4th for New York, with $23,252 25 in silver. Also, on the 1st inst., for Hamburg, the Danish brig Catherine, with $6,752 in gold coin.

The general news is important. The political guarantees of the new constitution have been suspended, as proposed, and President Comenfort again clothed with dictatorial powers; on what precise terms and for what length of time was not known at latest advices. The first vote, which was taken on the 30th, in secret session, was on the general proposition, and stood 72 to 31. The terms of the dictatorship were to come up for consideration next day, the 31st, when an attempt was made to have the discussion public, but this was voted down. It was not known, therefore, whether the demands of the Executive were granted in whole or in part, though from a dispatch received at Vera Cruz it would seem that nothing had been settled.

The new Secretary of the Interior, Jaarez, and confessedly the most important man in the new cabinet, whether we consider his office, his personal character or his influence, reached the capital the evening of the 31st. Multitudes of people went out of the city to meet him, and his entry into the same was almost a triumphal one. Sr. Juarez, who, we believe, is an Indian of pure blood, has always been an extreme radical in politics. He is undoubtedly a man of eminent talent and acquirements, as he is a statesman of large experience, having held many important offices. He is the author of the law "Juarez."

The other members of the new cabinet have been well received. Their installation was very timely, and, as expected, proved favorable in its influence upon the demand for its extraordinary powers. HUSBAND AND WIFE CONVICTED OF MURDER AND SENTENCED TO BE HANGED,—A somewhat remarkable and exciting murder trial has just been concluded in London, Canada. The defendants were a man named Neil Beaton and his wife, who were accused of murdering with poison a Mr. Russell, the late husband of Mrs. Beaton.

The trial only occupied one day, but in that vicinity seems to have excited about as much interest as that of Madeline Smith, in Scotland. For some time after the death of Russell there was no suspicion against the accused, but circumstances gradually accumulated of a suspicious character, the chief of which was the marriage of the parties soon after the death of Russell.

The accused belong to what is generally called "the more respectable classes of society," which fact gives the affair additional interest. Beaton, the husband, is described as a young man about 26 years of age, and rather prepossessing in appearance. Mrs. Beaton is about 38 years of age, not handsome, but of respectable appearance.

There was no direct proof of their guilt, but they were convicted on circumstantial evidence. There was every reason to suppose that the prisoners indulged in illicit love during the lifetime of Russell, that this supplied a motive for the commission of the crime, and which motive was rendered more apparent by the marriage of Beaton to Mrs. Russell a few days after the death of her husband. Certain remarks made by Beaton, in conversation, apparently in anticipation of Russell's death, were also strongly against them, as also was a question asked by Mrs. Beaton, previously to Russell's death, relative to the properties of arsenic; and also, the fact of her leaving her bed at the dead of night to talk to Beaton privately; the fact of her being seen giving the ceased something to drink under suspicious circumstances, and her unfeeling conduct while her husband was on the point of death, and other facts, together with the proof, brought out by a post-mortem examination of the deceased, that he had died of poison, pointed to the accused as the murderers, the woman having administered the poison, and Beaton being her accomplice.

The jury, after being out several hours, returned a verdict of guilty, according to circumstantial evidence, and they have both been sentenced to be hanged.

The sale of the Fort Ripley Reservation has been reported to the War Department, but the absurdly insignificant price which the land brought (from one to twenty-five cents per acre) has induced Secretary Floyd to reject the sale and set aside all proceedings.

ITEMS.

Comical Innocence .- An exchange says a little child had made a stool, no two of the legs of which were of a length. While in vain trying to make it stand upon the floor, he looked in his mother's face and asked, "Does God see everything?" "Yes, my child." "Well," replied the son, "I guess he will laugh when he sees this stool."

Mobile and Ohto Ratlroad .- From all accounts, this road is progressing rapidly. The track is completed to the Columbus junction, which is 2221/2 miles from Mobile.

Gov. Thursday, the nineteenth law, but sustained by ancient custom, appointed a day of Thanksgiving. Thursday, the nineteenth day of this month, is the day now appointed, and I trust it will be observed. There is, certainly, some super-ruling Providence which has brought us into existence, and which will ultimately accomplish the ends for which we were created, not only as individuals, but as a people. Nothing can, therefore, be lost by recognizing the obligation which we owe to the Supreme Being—by it much may be gained."

THE NEW ARCTIC EXPEDITION - Letter from Capt. McClintock-Progress of the Expedition-Meeting with the Family of Hans, Dr. Kane's Hunter.-The New York Journal of Commerce -ays:

We have before us, in manuscript, a letter from Capt. F. L. McClintock, commanding the Arctic ex capt. F. L. McChintock, commanding the Archice se-pedition recently sent out by Lady Franklin. The last date is "Off Baal's River," Greenland. More recent advices, however, have been received, which left him at Lively, Greenland, on the 4th of Au-gust, all well. He was preparing to leave, as the ice was making fast. But to the letter:

Commenced at Frederickshaab, South Greenland, 21st July (Tuesday), finished off Baal's River, 25th

July, 1851.

'My Dear Lady Franklin: As there is an opportunity of writing to Europe, before the usual October vessels, I gladly embrace it to let you know how we have got on hitherto. Our escape from Aberdeen was followed by a long run of success. In the Pentland Firth on the morning of the 3d of July, we passed Penny (and several what re) in an unus-

Pentland Firth on the morning of the 3d of July, we passed Penny (and several whalers) in an unusually rapid style—they were soon out of sight attern. Ten days of delightful weather brought us to Cape Farewell (in sight of it), and then being becaimed, I used steam for the first time since leaving Scotland for a few hours.

"We now had several days of fogs and calms, yet made tolerable progress, unimpeded by ice until the 17th. On that day we met with vast quantities of a very heavy description, known as Spitzbergen ice; the wind also began to blow a gale from the northwest. Being now only 40 miles from Frederickshaab, which is the principal settlement in South Greenland, I determined to force through the ice and go inte that port. After running for several hours go into that port. After running for several hours through it, and getting occasional hard knocks, which made our bell ring and proved the soundness of our vessel, the ice became so closely packed, and the fog so thick, that we could sail no farther. I then tried steam, and after frequent stoppages and an anxious night we got through all the ice, and found ourselves in comparatively clear water near the shore. This I had expected; but I had also haved that the few would have been confined to the hoped that the fog would have been confined to the immediate vicinity of the ice. In this I was disap-pointed, nor were we able to see land until the ev-ning, when it all cleared off and revealed the most beautiful sight I have seen for a very long time. A lofty and bold coast line fringed with countless is-lets—far in the interior the mountain peaks upreared lets—far in the interior the mountain peaks upreared themselves, and a glacier about ten miles in width sloped down to the sea shore.

"Early on Sunday morning, the 19th, we anchored off the quiet little settlement of Julianshaab, to the astonishment of the natives. Prince Napoleon visited this place last summer, and in the year 1837 a French ship-of-war came here. I cannot ascertain that they have ever had any other visitors, excepting, of course, the annual Danish ship.

"You are, I suppose, wondering what induced me to come in here. I will now explain. On the passage out, one of my best men, Michael Lewis, was seized with an alarming amount of spitting of blood. It occurred a second time, and upon inquiry I found that he had been attacked similarly last winter. Notwithstanding cod liver oil and every care, he soon began to lose strength, so finding from Pehe soon began to lose strength, so finding from Peterson that there would be a Danish ship at this place, I came here on purpose to obtain a passage home for him by the first vessel. We found a vessel home for him by the first vessel. We found a vessel here, but she is not the first to sail, so having got an order for his passage from Dr. Kirk, the Inspector of South Greenland, I intend sailing this evening for Goodhaab (Baal's river) where I hope to meet the vessel which is now about to sail for Copenhagen. I will write to the English consul at that place about him. There is a fixed charge for the researce which will be resid by the consult Corent. passage, which will be paid by the consul at Copenhagen, and from there he will be sent home as a distressed British subject. This is the best arrange-ment I can make for him, as he will get home be-fore autumn, which would not be the case if I was to put him on board a whaler; moreover it is doubtful whether we shall see them. Lewis was with me in the Enterprise, and subsequently he served in the Phenix. He is a very steady and fine looking young man, of 29 years of age. Nothing could have been more unexpected than his break-down.

"Here I have purchased 8 tons of coal (altogether we have consumed 8 tons since leaving 4 berdeen).

we have consumed 81/2 tons since leaving Aberdeen) and I am getting a considerable quantity of codish, which the natives catch for us at about a shilling a dozen. I am having them packed in casks in ice, for the crew. I have also got some plank here, that we were in want of. "Dr. Walker has been very busy making collecvery interesting specimens of criolite, and other minerals from the Danes residing here.

"We are a perfect Polar-man-of-war in our system, and nothing can work better. All are most zealous, efficient, and cheerful.

zealous, efficient, and cheerful.

"Tuesday Evening.— The captain of the Danish vessel Peru, now at Frederickshaab, is the same who picked up Kane and his crew at Upernavick, in 1855, and brought them to Disco. We started under steam, in a thick fog, and are now under the guidance of a native pilot, a brother of Haro, the Esquimaux, who was so useful to Kane, and who absconded so romantically from him. 'The Hans family' are all most anxious to get him back again. This morning, Dr. Kirk started for the next settlement to the south, about 140 miles off, in an Oomiak, or skin boat. It looked so odd to see the dignified Inspector seated in state, with a large Danish flag waving over him, a grim old Esquimaux pilot steering, and six meek young Esquimaux ladies rowing! They row from morning until night, and often go 60 or 70 miles without halting to sleep. "Saturday, 25th.—On Thursday, 23d, when beat-

"Saturday, 25th.—On Thursday, 25th, when beating up against a strong northwest wind, our fore topmast head carried away, so, in order to repair the damage as quickly as possible, I took advantage of our being close to Fiskernan, to run in and anchor for a few hours. This morning (6 o'clock) I am going into Baal's river, and I hope to be there before eight o'clock, and if I can leave Lewis on board the Daniel was all I will assist against the selection. ish vessel, I will sail again immediately, although the wind is against us. I intend touching at Liev-ly next, then through the Walgat Strait to Inglely next, then through the Walgat Strait to Ingle-field's coal mine, and after taking on board a small quantity, I purpose going to Proven and Upernavick for dogs. All the people here agree in stating that for many years they have not had so stormy a win-ter, or such a prevalence of northwesterly winds du-ring spring. I believe we shall find all this in our favor, at least as far as crossing Baffin's Bay is con-cerned.

Mediums and Ink .- The following analysis of the Measums and The.—The following analysis of the manner in which spiritual music is sometimes produced occurred a few days since in Lowell. The Vox Populi says: "The celebrated 'Davenport mediums," who have been performing here for the last two weeks such wonderful tricks as drawing music two weeks such wonderful tricks as drawing music from various instruments without touching them, were outwitted, a day or two since, by a printer of this city. The two boy mediums were tied hands and feet, and put into a dark (of course!) place with the instruments, the whole arrangement being first examined by the spectators. Now, on this occasion, the said printer was a visitor, and he had been led to apply a little private test for his own satisfaction. He took along with him a very little printing ink, which is as tenacious as wheel-grease, and marked therewith the instruments. The performance went on; the mediums were firmly tied and bound to their seats, to convince the audience that they could not touch the instruments; then came the darkness; then instrumental music by the spirits; then the manager said, 'Let there be light,' and the mediums were unbound and came forth—each with fingers well bedaubed with printer's ink."

A teacher of one of the Sunday Schools was lecturing a class of little girls on the influence of pious instruction in the formation of youthful character. "Ah, Miss Caroline," said he to one of the class, "what do you think you would have been without your good father and pious mother?" "I suppose, sir, I should have been an orphan."

A gentleman worthy of all credit, and who may be the more readily trusted as his be the more readily trusted as his story acknowledges his own defeat, was roused one night by a heavy bumping noise on the stairs. Unable to acheavy lumping noise on the stairs. Unable to account for it, he rose, donned his dressing gown, and, with his candle in his hand, proceeded to investigate the cause. The rat at first continued his exertions, but as the enemy gained upon him he changed his tactics, and turning his front upwards began to climb towards his opponent. This was just such an intruder as might with all justice have been kicked down stairs; but so stern was his air and so menacing his aspect, that the gentleman hesitated, and hesitation ended in retreat. His feet being armed only with slippears, he lost heart and began slowly to ascend backwards; while the rat deliberately mounted after him, and thus steadily drove him back to his bedroom, the door of which he shut him back to his bedroom, the door of which he shut in the face of his foe, and terminated the adventure by retiring to bed, while the rat returned to his well-

A HUMAN HAIR FAIR—Women Bringing thetr Tresses to Market.—Very few of our gentle readers, probably, ever heard of or imagined such a thing as a Haman Hair Fair. As few, perhaps, ever thought of inquiring into the source of the beautiful tresses which are seen every day in those armories of Ve-nus, the windows of the hairdressers. We are renus, the windows of the handressers. We are reminded, however, by a late French paper, that this is the season for the annual hair fair at Morlaas, in the lower Pyrenees, in France. Morlaas is near the city of Pau, and it is from a Pau journal that we derive some account of the fair the present season. The hair dealers were crowding into the place from Tuliuse, and eyen Bordeaux; and all points, from Toulouse, and even Bordeaux; and the young peasant girls of the neighborhood, famous for their fine and abundant heads of hair, were flocking to the market like sheep, to be shorn of their locks for the adornment of other and prouder heads. Even young husbands accompany their wives, to insist upon their despoiling themselves, for triffing consideration of their heautiful heads of a trifling consideration, of their beautiful heads of hair. Twenty francs is the highest price which is given for the richest head of hair, and a majority of the damsels part with their locks for a tenth part of peasant damsels in the south of France, are imported to in this country annually.

This singular market is held in the open street, and attracts crowds of curious as well as interested persons. Girls are seen to be sheared in public, while others are waiting their turn with their caps in their hands, and their long hair combed out and hanging down to their waists. The shearers are men as well as women. Some of our fair readers will conclude that this must be a degrading scene. But how else could the stock of wigs, and frizettes, and bands, and top-pieces, and curls which is needed to prop up the tottering beauty of the sex be supplied? Tons of black silken hair, sheared in the manner above described, from the heads of the peasant damsels in the south of France, are imported to in this country sampuly.

There are fairs in other places in the south of France and Brittany, where adventurous virtuosos buy up and shear the crops of the fair-haired damsels. At first blush, it would seem that female vanity would effectually prevent such a traffic as this. But cupidity and indolence are stronger passions than vanity; and fashion even lends its aid to this singular custom of parting with the finest ornament to the person which nature affords.

In Brittany particularly, where the finest and most silken black hair is procured, it is the universal fashion, from childhood upwards, to wear caps so close as completely to conceal the hair. The peasant girls there have particularly fine hair, and in the greatest abundance. It is so common as not in the greatest abundance. It is so common as not to be a mark of beauty; and the people are morally incapable of appreciating it as intrinsically beautiful and attractive. It is a truth which ought not to be told, perhaps, in the presence of all our ladies, that the charming frizettes and tresses which beautify the heads of our blooming belies may possibly have been shorn from Breton damsels of very filthy and loathsome habits.

The Bretons are neither Normans nor French, but work Welsh then anything else; and they are wild

The Bretons are neither Normans nor French, but more Welsh than anything else; and they are wild and savage, and as idle and dirty as human nature can well be and exist. The poorer women wear their dresses till they become dirty, patched, tattered, and ragged, so that the material of which they are made can be scarcely traced. The houses of the peasants are generally built of mud and without convenience. The chestnut, which abounds in the converted furnishes to a considerable actent the food convenience. The chestnut, which abounds in the country, furnishes, to a considerable extent, the food of the poorer classes. Although inhabiting a fine country, capable of rendering them prosperous and wealthy, the Bretons grovel on in supine idleness and dirt. No wonder the women sell their hair, which is abundant and marketable. The people are which is abundant and marketable. The people are accustomed to subsist upon the products of spontaneous crops. In the Pyrenecs, the people are industrious and frugal, and the women are accustomed to regard a fine head of black or dark brown hair as only a luxurious burden.

ENGINES WORKED BY ETHER. - M. Tissott, engineer of some standing, has communicated to the French Academy of Sciences the description of an engine entirely worked by the expansive power of ether. The combination of this power with that of steam has long been tried as a large scale with parently good effect, nevertheless it is attended with certain inconveniences which more that balance its advantages. M. Tissott, therefore, endeavored to eliminate steam altogether, by mixing two litres of an essential oil of any kind except oil of turpentine with the ether. The boiler is encircled with a wawith the ether. The boiler is encircled with a water-bath; moreover, each time that the ether is reconducted to the boiler it is made to pass through a thin stratum of olive oil. The boiler is filled to a certain depth with water, in which a small quantity of soda (one gramme per litre) has been dissolved. The ether, in passing through the oil in a state of vapor, carries some particles of this oil with it; and the latter, coming in contact with the soda, is converted to soap.

We have gained time upon Inglefield; he left Fiskernaan on the evening of the 23d July, therefore, I am 16½ days in advance. My present intention is to visit Pond's Bay, before proceeding farther, and gather there all possible information.

25th, 8, A.M.—Standing in to the Baal's river. The Danish vessel is coming out, so I shall not anchor. Excuse this hasty finish, and believe me yours, sincerely, (signed)

P. S.—I cannot add another line—both vessels are under sail, and the Danish captain is in haste to recent the solution of the statistic consumed, per hour and per horse covers being undered and tested with satisfactory effect, another of 12 horse power was established some time ago in a brewery at Lyons instead of a common steam engine, and has been found to answer perfectly. The evaporation of ether is much more feetly. The evapo quantity of coal consumed, per hour and per horse power being only one and a half kilogrammes, while the ordinary quantity is four kilogrames.

GETTING OVER A DIFFICULTY.—A class which graduated not over a thousand years ago, embraced among its members one Tom Elliott, an incorrigible wag, who was not noted for any particular marked attention to his studies. Mathematics was a particular object of Tom's disregard, and this caused hirn an occasional jeu d'esprit with the dry professors of conics. On one occasion the professor, during the recitation, asked Tom to explain the horizontal parallax of the sun.

Tom replied, "I do not know how."

"But," said the professor, "suppose you were appointed by the government to ascertain it what would you do?"

"I'd resign," gravely responded Tom, amid the

"I'd resign," gravely responded Tom, amid the convulsive laughter of the class, and even the professor actually perpetrated a grin.

Dr. King's Dispension.

DR. A. KING, a practitioner of New York for thirty years, and for the last four in this city, has removed his Dispensary to next door to Walker's Exchange. Third street, Louisville, for the treatment of Private Diseases, such as Gonorriea, Syphilis, and all diseases of the skin and other derangements growing out of neglect or imperfect cure. His long experience and success enable him to act with confidence. All those who may confide their cases to him may rest assured of having the disease effectually cured and every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

STRICTURES of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuance of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.—Particular attention will be given to this disease and all the consequences growing out of jt, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of inconsiderate youth and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unfit for either busines or society, and causing premature old age.

OWEN & WOOD, 495 Market st. Fourth Volume of Debates of Congress

THE ABRIDGEMET OF THE DEBATES OF CON-GRESS, or the Political History of the United States, from the original Documents. Edited by Col. Thomas I. Benton. In 15 large octave volumes of about 750 two-col-Benton. In 15 large octavo volumes of about 750 two-column pages.

This work has now reached the fourth volume, and is giving great satisfaction among all classes. It will contain the wi-dom of Congress for seventy years, and will be an invaluable part of the history of the country. It is of national interest, and one of the most valuable compendiums for public and private libraries ever issued. The work realizes a desideratum long felt, and of all others, for the political history of the Government, most wanted. Its wide range of characters, each one speaking for himself and representing his own party, and its far stretch of time, make it of the greatest value to the nation. The indexing is very complete, so that any name or subject desired may be found in either volume at once.

Terms.—The work is publishing exclusively by subscription, and the volumes are issued at intervals of from 2 to 3 months. In cloth binding at $3; law sheep $5.50; half morocco $4; half calf extra $4.50; each volume payable as delivered.

HOLLAND BITTERS

THE CELEBRATED HOLLAND REMEDY FOR

DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS, LIVER COMPLAINT.

WEAKNESS OF ANY KIND

FEVER AND AGUE,

And the various affections consequent upon a disordere STOMACH OR LIVER,
Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, Costivenes, shiind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheu matic, and Neuralgic Affections, it has in numerous in stances, proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decicle cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Pr. feesor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spurits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in its effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.

NOTIC?—Whoever expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION.

The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has indued many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these imitations.

OUR TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY .- The foreign news by the Niagara is of the highest importance. The money pressure had just commenced making itself felt in England. The Bank had raised the rate of interest to 9 per cent, which is higher than it has ever been. Cotton was dull and had declined. No quotations are given. Provisions were also lower, and breadstuffs had a declining tendency.

The New Orleans dispatch mentions a collision between two Texas steamers, by which one of them was sunk and many lives lost. Among them was Gen. James Hamilton, a distinguished citizen of South Carolina and a prominent candidate for U. S. Senator.

Police Proceedings — Wednesday, Nov. 18.—

In Paris bourse was unsettled, but there had been no advance in the rates of discount.

At a banquet which took place at the Mansion House, London, the Duke of Cambridge spoke in favor of summary vengeance upon the Sepoys.

The continental news furnished is unimportant. Liverpool Markets, Nov. 7.—All qualities of cotton have suffered a considerable decline since the previous advices. The market closed very dull. The sales of the week amount to 22,000 bales.

Breadstuffs are essentially unchanged, although they closed with declining tendency.

The provision market, circulars report, as closing very dull; lard heavy with a considerable decline on all qualities.

London, Nov. 6th—Money has been decidedly more stringent.

Manchester are of discount. by the Niagara is of the highest importance. The Police Proceedings - Wednesday, Nov. 18 .-The lobbies and room were crowded this morning in anticipation of hearing the examination of Coleman, who killed Hopwood last evening. All the witness ses had not been summoned, and the case was laid over till to-morrow. Coleman's christian name is Augustus, and Gustavus, and not Hopwood had a family-a wife and child.

The cases brought before the Court were of little importance. John Hancock and Edward Burke were charged with drunkenness and riotous conduct and required to give bail in $100 to answer and in $200 to be of good behavior for three months.

Charles Lovley, drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Bail in $100 for one month.

James Kelly was charged with stealing a coat and pair of pantaloons from Peter Cooney. His case was continued.

James Kimball was arraigned for drunkenness and abusing his family, but, as he resides out of the city limits, he was turned over to a magistrate. Several ordinance warrants were then disposed of.

B. B. Connor, for firing a gun, was fined $4. Isaac Williamson, standing his wagon on Market street, and Thomas Lowry, standing his hack on Main street, were fined $5 each. Michael Bolton and Patrick McMeekin, two scavengers, creating a nuisance, were fined $5 each. Mary Bolton, selling after market hours, was fined $10. Mrs. Werner, having a frame building put up in violation of an ordinance, was fined $50.

The Montreal Commercial Advertiser says that the amount of damage done by the recent freshet in the township bordering upon the State of New York, between the St. Lawrence and Lake Champlain, is en rmous. Nearly a hundred bridges have been swept away or seriously damaged; much injury has been done to mills and dams, and large quantities of produce destroyed in barns and stacks. The water in the Chateauguay, Trout, and other rivers rising in the New York mountains rose to a height never before witnessed, and everflowing their banks submerging miles of the flat country. Cattle were drowned in the stables, houses were flooded to the depth of several feet, the inhabitants being driven to the upper stories, and all communications were cut off for several days.

Out of the United States, railroad accidents and steamboat explosions attach blame to somebody or other, and juries are not slow to fasten it where it demand for provisions with full prices. Money market unbelongs. Mr. Manly, the night station-mas- changed. ter, in London, C. W., was put on his trial in that city, on the 15th inst., for allowing one train that city, on the 15th inst., for allowing one train to run on the time of another, whereby a collission took place. After hearing the evidence, the jury returned a verdict of guilty. He has not yet been sentenced.

The Adriatic has just returned from a successful trial trip of three days. Those on board competent to judge were highly delighted with the extraordinary performance of the ship and her engines, and believe that all reasonable expectations as to both will be fully realized.

The Hon. John C. Breckinridge, Vice President of the United States, has sold his residence in Lexington to the Rev. Wm. C. Dandy, a minister of the Methodist conference now located at Maysville; and on Saturday last disposed of his furniture, &c.

Rev. E. F. Berkley, of Lexington, who is going to remove to St. Louis, was presented on Monday evening, by the pupils of the Misses Williamson, with an elegant silver service, consisting of a salvar and two goblets. Mr. Berkley took leave of his cougregation on Sabbath morning last in a feeling, touching, and beautiful discourse. He had been the Pastor of the church for nineteen years.

GEN. HASKELL.-It affords us unfeigued pleasure to find the following announcement in the Lexington Observer. We trust that Gen. H. may be prevailed upon to deliver a lecture here on his re-

[For the Louisville Journal.] PUBLIC MEETING.

At a public meeting held at the court-house in Shelbyville, Ky., November 9, 1857, to consider the present financial embarrasment of the State, T. O. Shackelford was elected chairman and H. A. Chinn scort-tary.
On motion, a committee, composed of Gad Davis, Thos.
W. Brown, Benj. C. Stephens, F. Neel, and Joseph L. Ray, was appointed to draft resolutions, who, after retiring to consult, proposed the following, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we recommend to the banks liberal accommodation leans—in other words, to do their regular business in loaning money—resuming their usual line of discounts; and should suspension be the result of this liberal policy, we pledge ourselves to the extent of our influence to sustain the credit of the banks and its issues, and to procure legislative acts saving them hereafter from any such suspension.

to procure registarive accessful the such suspension.

Resolved, That we recognize in this measure the only prospect of immediate relief, and that the producing classes of the country imperatively require either this measure of relief or some other adequate to the emergency, in order to save the farmer, the mechanic, and the laborer from ruin-save the farmer, the mechanic, and the laborer from ruinous embarrassment.

Resolved, That in view of the derangement of the currency, the peruniary pressure that retards trade, and the general embarrassment of the country, we recommend to the ensuing Legislature, a bill authorising a suspension of the Banks of Kentucky of specie payment, for such a length of time, and on such conditions, as will guard the people from undue expansion on the one hand, and a sudden contraction on the other, and will also guaranty the solvency of said institutions.

Resolved. That the citizens in the various sections of this state be requested to hold meetings to take into consideration the present financial embarrassments in this State.

State.

Resolved., That the editors of the Shelbyville News.

| From this morning's Journal.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. The War Department to-day received highly interesting official dispatches, including a proclamation of Brigham Young, declaring martial law. He claims the right to do so, in virtue of his authority as Governor of the Territory and Superintendent of Indian affairs, not having been suspended from exercising his functions; and in virtue of his power under the territorial organization, he especially form bids the United States troops entering the territory without his authority.

He complains that the Mormons have not been treated as American citizens; that the Government has acted on misrepresentations, the object being to drive the people from the territory. The language is emphatically in rostility to the authority of the United States, and is here regarded as a declaration of war.

When Col. Alexander was within thirty miles of Fort Bridges, which place is occupied by Mormon troops, he received a letter from Brigham Young, through the commander of the Nauvoo legion, warning the troops out of the territopy, but saying if they desire to remain until spring they may do so, provided they give up their arms and ammunition, but they must then leave within the time mentioned. He will see that they are furnished with provisions.

The latter was accompanied by two copess of the

The latter was accompanied by two copses of the proclamation and a copy of the laws of Utah. The commander tells Col. Alexander that he is at the commander tells Col. Alexander that he is at the fort to carry out Young's instructions, and expresses a hope that Alexander's answers and actions will be dictated by proper respect for the rights and liberties of American citizens. Alexander in his reply, [Oct. 2d] says: "I have given your communication attentive consideration and will submit the letter to the Garcell commanding as soon as he arrives here."

Oct. 2d] says: "I have given your communication attentive consideration and will submit the letter to the General commanding as soon as he arrives here. [meaning at Camp Warfield on Ham's Fork], in the meantime, I have to say that these troops are here by order of the President of the United States, and their further movements will depend entirely upon orders issued by competent authority.

Among the occuments is a letter from Col. Konston, dated "Camp of Free Winds, on Sweet Water, addressed to Assistant Adjutant General McDowell, New York," in which he confirms the burning of the contractor's trains by the Mormons. He says the Governor's escort is four day's march behind him, with two companies of drogoons.

He knows of no reason why Alexander should attempt to reach Salt Lake by rear river, excepting from fear that the Mormons have burned the grass on the shorter route. He adds: "If I could communicate with Col. Alexander, I would direct him to take up a good position for the winter at Ham's Fork. The road is beset between this and Ham's Fork with companies of Mormons, so that it is doubtful whether I shall be able to communicate with Alexander."

It is supposed at the War Department that the troops are all in good condition, as nothing is said to the contrary in the dispatches to the Secretary.

THE LADIES will find the handsomest stock of Riding Hats ever seen now at HAYES, CRAIG, & CO.'S, has taste is unrivaled in that line of goods. a29 j&b.

FROM THE PLAINS,—Mr. Lander, who is connected as chief engineer with Magraw's Wagon Road Survey, passed through this city on his way to Washington on Saturday last.

This gentleman has performed, since the 15th day of June last, the unprecedented feat of riding 4,400 miles, much of the distance in unexplored mountain passes, and all in rough field service, without a tent, or ordinary baggage, 'in the short space of four and a half months, including eighteen camp days.

The Mormons having burned all the grass on the southern wintering grounds, the Wagon Road expedition has selected a camp on Wind river. It is surrounded by herds of buffalo and elk, with which, in event of failure of other means of subsistence, the train may be supplied.

B. F. Ficklin, one of the assistant engineers of the advance party, who had distinguished himself in detached service, had been detained by Mr. Lander at the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purches days and they provident for the train. In at the request of Superintendent Magraw, to purchase flour and other provisions for the train. In performing this duty, he was surrounded, near Green river, by sixty well armed mounted Mormons. He gave them evasive answers as to the nature of his business, and was at length allowed to depart. He rode at the command of Col. depart. He rode at once to the command of Col. Alexander, many miles distant, and informed that gentleman of the advance of the mounted armed men, and of the rumors that five hundred had crossgentleman of the advance of the mounted armed men, and of the rumors that five hundred had crossed Green river, going in the direction of unprotected Government trains, but before any escort was sent, three trains, embracing seventy-six wagons, were reached and completely destroyed by the party of sixty men first seen. From the destruction of these trains of provisions, the Eastern mountaineers were disposed to hold articles of sub sistence at a hig price. Flour was thirty dollars a hundred at Platte Bridge, one hundred and twenty-five miles beyond Fort Laramie, and rising; and a general belief prevailed in the country that hostilities were commenced. The military forces were in high spirits, and, though traveling with every prospect of enduring great hardships, enthusiastic to a man, and prepared for the worst.

The explorations of the advance party of the Wagon Road Expedition had proved of great service to the command. The entire region between the Salt Lake and Snake river, the South Pass and Thousand Spring Valley, connecting the work of Stanbury and Fremont, and hitherto unexplored, had been surveyed and mapped, sixteen mountain passes examined, all the tributaries of the upper Green river defined to their sources, the great Wahsatach chain found to consist of sixteen distinct ranges. Numerous supplies of grass, wood, and water had been discovered, and various wagon satach chain found to consist of sixteen distinct ranges. Numerous supplies of grass, wood, and water had been discovered, and various wagon routes, two of which avoid the Grand Desert of the Sandy, and one seven days' shorter travel in a distance of five hundred miles, than any previously known. These may be mentioned as some of the results of the explorations. The military force had, therefore, abandoned the old line of approach, and were advancing upon the valley of the Lake by the open plains of the western descent of the Bear and Malade rivers.

When Mr. L. informed Gov. Cummings of the Malade rivers.

When Mr. L. informed Gov. Cummings of the commencement of Mormon disturbances by the destruction of Government trains, being the first to bring this intelligence, Gov. C. quietly remarked, "Tell all my friends, sir, that I started to obey instructions and to go into Salt Lake City, and I am going."

going."

Brigham Young had already disclaimed any participation or knowledge of the overt act of burning the supply trains, and the best judges of the Mormon character believe that the leaders of this singular society will continue to endeavor to blind the gular society will continue to endeavor to blind the eyes of the General Government and put off the day of a stand-up fight to the last moment. On the other hand, old mountaineers are predicting the most disastrous consequences if the troops are not able to fight their way into the city. The grass burned, the forage well nigh eaten up, winter setting in with several deep snows, much of the command far in the rear, and a great range of mountains shutting it out from the northern wintering grounds, all seem to give wei, ht to the supposition that the expedition will not be a successful one. Cache Valley, which is an open, well grassed plain, in which are several Mormon farms, and over which in which are several Mormon farms, and over which roam great herds of cattle and horses, the proper of the Church, will soon, however, be within strik-ing distance of the command.
